Could you deliver this document to Mr. Sopchak regarding the upcoming financial terror his selections will cause him this year.

The Mets also have backup selections in all of the categories due the high probability that the players will be traded (or released) by the end of the season. The Reds will not hold the Mets to those selections for now. The Mets will be free to choose any player available on their roster at the time of a trade.

Feel free to send money to me on a monthly basis to offset the large-October-check basis you have been paying the last two years.

Thank you.
